

BIM – 2010: The Life Cycle Savings of BIM

“4th Annual Conference”

Wednesday, September 15, 2010

Conference co-hosts:

Alliance for Construction Excellence

City of Phoenix

Attend this conference and explore the benefits of Building Information Modeling (BIM), including how this collaborative process reduces costs, clarifies risk and improves communication between all parties. Discover how BIM offers opportunities to save time, reduce project cost, and provide a high degree of quality while engaging the Owner in the decision process. Learn from industry leaders and investigate the potential possibilities to assess “Return on Investment”, payback and the future of Facility Management .

Keynote Speakers to include:

Mike LeFevre, Holder Construction – “Your Life in BIM: The Life Cycle Impact”

Chris Tisdell, SpawGlass General Contractors – “The Constructor’s Role in the BIM Process & Life Cycle Savings”

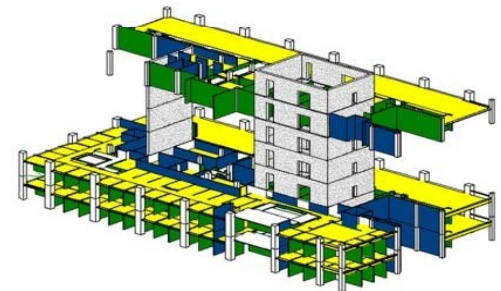

Steve Jones, McGraw Hill – “Recent McGraw-Hill Research on BIM”

Birgitta Foster, Sandia Natl Labs – “BIM after Construction – Visualize the Building in a New Dimension”
